Duckes Marsh

A photograph of a swing bridge, which is a type of movable bridge that can rotate around a horizontal axis. The bridge is shown in its open position, allowing ships to pass underneath. The bridge has a large, white, cylindrical structure in the center, which is the pivot point. The bridge is surrounded by water and there are some buildings in the background. The text "Swing Bridges" is written in a large, bold, black font over the image. A blue arrow points to the top left corner of the image.
